2016-17 DIRECTORY & SCHEDULE GUIDE

Welcome to the 33rd season of the North Coast Athletic Conference

Welcome to the North Coast Athletic Conference's 33rd season of operation. As you review the pages of this publication, we hope you see how the founding principles of the NCAC have persevered and how they have contributed to the quality collegiate experience of our student-athletes.

This is a unique publication; this guide serves as a viewbook of each of our 10 member institutions, while also serving as a fact-filled directory of names, phone numbers and records. Over the years this guide has proven to be a handy tool for administrators, coaches and media.

We wish to take this opportunity to thank the past and current presidents, administrators, coaches, sports information directors, athletic trainers and athletic department personnel who have helped make the North Coast Athletic Conference a success, and who have helped make the publication of a book of this scope possible.

Founded in 1983, the North Coast Athletic Conference is dedicated to fostering a complementary relationship between intercollegiate athletics and the pursuit of academic excellence. Consisting of 10 academically selective colleges and universities in Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania — Allegheny College, Denison University, DePauw University, Hiram College, Kenyon College, Oberlin College, Ohio Wesleyan University, Wabash College, Wittenberg University, The College of Wooster, along with affiliate member Earlham College — the NCAC believes that high-level athletic programs need not be sacrificed in order to meet rigid academic standards.

Significantly, all 10 NCAC institutions have been granted chapters of Phi Beta Kappa, the preeminent honor society for colleges and universities. Only 286 of the more than 3,000 four-year institutions in the United States have been so honored.

A member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Division III, the NCAC features championship competition in 23 sports — 11 for men and 12 for women. The 12 women's sports are among the most offered by any Division III conference, and the equality in number and emphasis between men's and women's athletics is just one of the elements that sets the North Coast apart.

Sarah Fowler,
Ohio Wesleyan

The goals of the conference express the best aspirations of American amateur athletics. The NCAC brings together a group of institutions which share a common allegiance to academic quality and to the conduct of athletics so as to support the educational purpose.

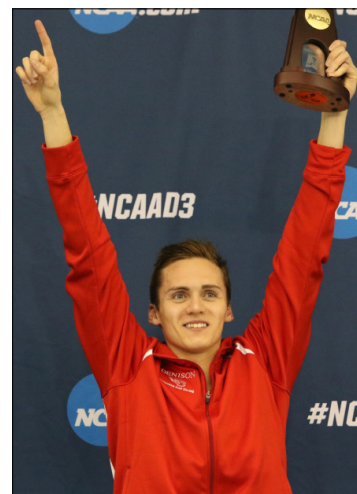

Intercollegiate athletics can and should complement academic life, rather than compete with it, and sports should enhance the experience of students during their college years. This type of academic and athletic commitment has been led by the 10 school presidents, who have taken an active role in the governance of the conference.

Sixty-two teams from all 23 North Coast sports and nine of the 10 members competed in the NCAA post-season during the 2015-16 academic year. The NCAC added another NCAA Division III swimming championship last year as Denison claimed the men's title for the third time in program history. In addition, the Wittenberg women's volleyball team advanced to the national title match for the second time in school history, where the Tigers finished as the national runner-up following a 3-0 loss against Cal Lutheran. Conference members have accumulated 70 national championships since the league was formed in February of 1983.

In the 2015-16 academic year, 228 All-America or Capital One/CoSIDA Academic All-America certificates were distributed to student-athletes from North Coast schools.

The NCAC's commitment to equity, its broad base of athletic programs, and an unwavering insistence on excellence in academics has served as a model for conferences throughout the country.

The North Coast has shown not only that these ideals can coexist, but that they can flourish. The NCAC continues as a pace-setter in the 21st century.

NCAC Presidents

Marvin Krislov, Oberlin College & President, NCAC

Marvin Krislov became the 14th President of Oberlin College in the summer of 2007. Since arriving at Oberlin, Mr. Krislov has led collaborative, consensus-driven efforts to make the College and Conservatory of Music more rigorous, diverse, inclusive, and accessible to students from every socio-economic background. His creation of The Oberlin Access Initiative, which has removed the loan burden for hundreds of Pell Grant-eligible students, reflects his abiding commitment to surmounting the challenges facing, low-income, first-generation students.

Under his leadership, Oberlin has entered a new era of environmental action and sustainability with the launch of the Oberlin Project, the creation of the Green Arts District and the construction of the mixed-use Gateway center. He has overseen major expansion and renovation of Oberlin's physical plant, including construction of a new, natural gas power plant replacing a coal-fired facility, a new jazz studies building, a new stadium complex, and acquisition and conversion of the historic Apollo Theatre in downtown Oberlin into a cinema and cinema studies complex.

Mr. Krislov has worked tirelessly to help make Oberlin Illuminate the most successful comprehensive campaign in our history. Its $250 million target was achieved 18 months ahead of schedule. He played a leading role in revitalizing Oberlin's health and wellness and athletics programs and facilities. That includes instigating and driving fundraising for the Knowlton Athletics complex, including the $8 million gift from the Knowlton Foundation—the largest gift to date by a non-Oberlin donor.

Increasing alumni engagement has been a priority of his administration. Achievements include creating the President's Advisory Council, and strategically moving the Oberlin Alumni Association in new directions with focus on career connections, alumni-to-alumni and alumni-to-student networking, and enhanced regional programming. This included transforming governance of the Alumni Association from a 300-member council to a leadership body of 27 members.

Mr. Krislov came to Oberlin from the University of Michigan, where he had been vice president and general counsel since 1998. During his tenure there, he led the University of Michigan's legal defense of its admission policies, resulting in the 2003 Supreme Court decision recognizing the importance of student body diversity.

Mr. Krislov earned a bachelor's degree, summa cum laude, at Yale University in 1982, and was named a Rhodes Scholar. He earned master's degrees at Oxford University and Yale, and a juris doctor degree at Yale Law School in 1988.

Prior to entering academic life, Mr. Krislov served as acting solicitor from 1997-98 in the U.S. Department of Labor, and as deputy solicitor of national operations from 1996 to 1998. He had previously served as associate counsel in the Office of Counsel to the President.

Faculty Athletics Representatives

Kirk Combe, Chair

Kirk Combe, Professor of English at Denison University, enters his second year of as co-Chair of the NCAC Faculty Representatives in the Conference's governance system.

In that position, he is one of four chairs of the NCAC Sports Caucus. The Sports Caucus is the assembly of athletic administrators from each Conference member college as well as the faculty athletic representatives from each member college.

The four chairs act as an executive committee for the Sports Caucus, setting agendas and chairing the various meetings of the Sports Caucus and its subgroups, the athletic directors and the faculty representatives. Beyond that, the chairs typically serve on standing current committees. Among their most important duties is serving on the Presidents' Council and attending those meetings, representing the Sports Caucus.

Combe teaches and researches in the areas of early modern British satire and drama, literary and cultural theory, and popular culture. On these topics he's published a number of books and articles. He's also published short fiction and a novel. Combe has a B.A. from Davidson College (North Carolina) and an M.A. from the Bread Loaf School of English, Middlebury College (Vermont).

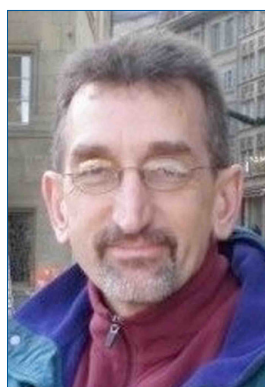

Combe completed his doctoral study at Oxford University, England, where he received a D.Phil. in British Literature. Combe is originally from Idaho, has taught at several universities in Europe and the United States, and prior to becoming a teacher spent several years playing professional basketball in Switzerland and Germany.

Faculty Athletics Representatives

Sarah Murnen, Chair

Sarah Murnen, associate professor of psychology at Kenyon College, enters her first year as co-Chair of the NCAC Faculty Representatives in the Conference's governance system.

In that position, she is one of four chairs of the NCAC Sports Caucus. The Sports Caucus is the assembly of athletic administrators from each Conference member college as well as the faculty athletic representatives from each member college.

The four chairs act as an executive committee for the Sports Caucus, setting agendas and chairing the various meetings of the Sports Caucus and its subgroups, the athletic directors and the faculty representatives. Beyond that, the chairs typically serve on standing current committees. Among their most important duties is serving on the Presidents' Council and attending those meetings, representing the Sports Caucus.

Murnen is a social psychologist who studies gender-related issues from a feminist, socio-cultural perspective. Specifically, Murnen examines how the status difference between women and men in American society might be developed and maintained through various gender-related behaviors.

Murnen has conducted research on the relationship between the male gender role and the perpetration of sexual violence and how the female gender role is related to body dissatisfaction. She is currently interested in Objectification Theory, which states that the ubiquitous treatment of women as bodies in society, combined with a very unrealistically thin body ideal for women, leads some women to internalize objectification and become preoccupied with their appearance. This can lead to body-related problems including eating disorders.

In much of her research, Murnen uses meta-analysis to statistically combine results across a large number of studies on a topic. Her teaching interests include statistics, psychology of women, research methods to study gender, and seminar on sexual violence. In addition to conducting research with students, Murnen collaborates with colleagues Linda Smolak and Michael Levine.

Murnen holds a Doctorate of Philosophy degree from SUNY Center Albany. She is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Bachelor of Science from Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green.

NCAC Staff

Executive Director

In December 2011, Keri Alexander Luchowski fully stepped into the role of executive director after serving as the acting director of the conference for the previous two and a half years. She enters her 18th year with the NCAC, having also filled assistant and associate executive director positions since she joined the league for the 1999-00 academic year.

Named acting executive director in July 2009, Alexander Luchowski assumed all administrative roles within the conference office as well as administration of the Intercollegiate Officiating Association (IOA). She also played an instrumental role in the conference's most recent transition, ushering DePauw University (IN) into the conference as an official member in the fall of 2011.

A 1992 graduate of Wheeling Jesuit University, she served three years as the communications coordinator of the National Professional Soccer League, now named the Major Indoor Soccer League, before joining the NCAC.

Alexander Luchowski is a member of the College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA), Division III Commissioners Association (DIIICA), the National Association of Division III Athletic Administrators (NADIIAA) and the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA), as well as the National Association of Collegiate Women's Athletics Administrators (NACWAA) and Women in Sports and Events (WISE). She also serves on the NACDA Under Armor Athletic Director of the Year selection committee.

While earning her undergraduate degree at Wheeling Jesuit, she played for the women's soccer team for four years, twice earning Academic All-America honors. She was the WVIAC Female Scholar-Athlete of the Year in 1991. In 1995, she earned a master's degree in sports administration from Kent State University. Alexander is a Cleveland-area native and graduated from Notre Dame Academy.

Assistant Executive Director

Bret Billhardt enters his seventh year with the the North Coast Athletic Conference. He moves into the assistant director role after serving as the assistant to the executive director in 2010-11. He will assist with media relations, website maintenance and publications, as well as a wide range of conference administrative duties.

Prior to the NCAC, he spent two years as assistant sports information director at Washington & Jefferson College, where he compiled statistics, designed publications, updated the Presidents' website and was a media contact for the school's 26 varsity sports. He also served as W&J's NCAA representative during five different teams' national tournament appearances.

A 2008 graduate of Otterbein University, Billhardt worked three years as a student assistant in the Cardinals' Sports Information Office. As an undergraduate, he interned with the Perry (Ohio) Recreation Department, and recently served as the official scorer for the Washington (Pa.) Wild Things Independent League baseball team.

Assistant Executive Director

Russell Kramer enters his fifth year with the North Coast Athletic Conference. He will be actively involved in all aspects of operation and administration of the NCAC, including, but not limited to, daily interactions with coaches and athletic administrators, championship administration, the conference award program and NCAA and NCAC compliance.

Kramer, a 2008 graduate of Oglethorpe University, comes to the NCAC after serving as the Director of New Media/Communications for the Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference (SCAC) since 2009.

Kramer began his service with the SCAC as a sports information assistant in the 2008-09 academic year. Among his numerous accomplishments at the SCAC, Kramer is credited for the redevelopment and management of the conference's website and the coordination of media platforms at all conference championship events. Kramer also assisted in the day-to-day operations of the conference office, including directing coaches' meetings and managing numerous conference championship events.

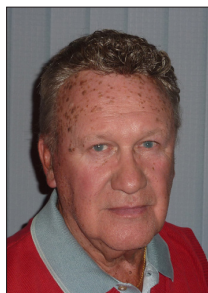

NCAC Supervisors of Officials

Deron Brown

Baseball

Deron Brown begins his first season as supervisor of baseball officials for the NCAC. A graduate of Eastern Kentucky he has been involved in umpiring for 29 years. His resume includes Division I conference tournaments, NCAA Regionals, the College World Series and he continues to umpire professionally in the Frontier League playoffs. Brown also serves as the HCAC, G-MAC and the Frontier League assignor.

Andy Pfaff

Football

Andy Pfaff begins his 20th season as supervisor of football officials for the NCAC and its subsidiary, the Intercollegiate Officiating Assoc. He was a collegiate football official for 28 years, culminating his career as the senior referee of the Mid-American Conference officiating staff. The retired educator, a University of Akron graduate, has been active in Ohio officiating circles. Pfaff was inducted into the Summitt County Sports Hall of Fame in 2006.

Diane Plas

Women's Basketball/Volleyball

Diane Plas enters her 31th year as supervisor of women's basketball officials for the NCAC and its subsidiary, the Intercollegiate Officiating Assoc. She is in her 13th year as supervisor of volleyball officials for the North Coast, and has served the Mid-American Conference and other regional leagues for many years in that capacity. A former Division I basketball official, Plas is a graduate of Bowling Green where she was an intercollegiate athlete.

Chip Rogers

Women's Lacrosse

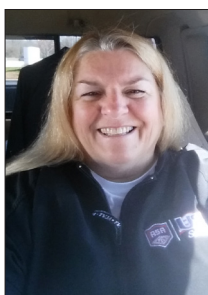

Chip Rogers, in his fourth season as the NCAC supervisor of Women's Lacrosse officials. Rogers is active in the national and international women's lacrosse communities at a number of different levels as a statistician, official, administrator and coach. A rated official, Rogers has also officiated both high school and collegiate games as well as at national tournaments. He is also conducted a number of training sessions for both officials and coaches. Currently, Rogers serves as the Assistant Field Hockey Coach at Miami of Ohio.

Bill Ek

Men's Basketball

Bill Ek enters his sixth season as supervisor of men's basketball officials for the NCAC and its subsidiary, the Intercollegiate Officiating Assoc. He has been a collegiate basketball official since 1987, and is currently working games in the Big Ten, Mid-American and Summit conferences. Ek also serves the OAC, AMC, PAC, MIAA and other regional leagues as an officials' supervisor. He is a graduate of Kent State University.

Merri Taylor

Softball

Merri Taylor begins her first season as the NCAC supervisor of softball officials. Taylor has been a college umpire for the past 33 years, working all levels from the NAIA all the way up to NCAA Division I. She has worked 21 conference tournaments at the Division I and II levels along with seven NAIA Championships, two NCAA Division III Regionals and three NCAA Division I Regionals. Taylor who is currently the softball coordinator of officials for the HCAC, the Crossroads League and the Mid-American Conference

Marv Frye

Cross Country/Track & Field

Marv Frye begins his 19th season as director of NCAC cross country and track & field officiating. He serves as the starter in the NCAC cross country championship and assists the NCAC hosts with selection of the officials for the indoor and outdoor NCAC track & field championships. Frye retired from Ohio Wesleyan in 1997 having completed an outstanding 37-year tenure at the University, where he established himself as a legend in collegiate running sports.

Don Hunsinger

Tennis

Don Hunsinger enters his 10th season as director of NCAC tennis. He serves as the liaison between the NCAC office and the conference tennis coaches and assists with administration of the NCAC Tournament. Hunsinger retired from Oberlin in January 2008 having completed an outstanding 31-year tenure at the College, serving in various capacities ranging from athletic director to football coach to tennis director.

Mary Brainard

Field Hockey

Mary Brainard begins her second season as supervisor of field hockey officials for the NCAC. A national umpire who officiates all three levels of NCAA field hockey, she also has extensive experience in rating and training new and younger officials. Brainard, who has been officiating both field hockey and lacrosse in the NCAC since 1988, graduated from Ohio State.

Allegheny College

The first to be founded -- in 1815 -- of the venerable North Coast Athletic Conference institutions, Allegheny today remains at the fore among the nation's colleges of arts and sciences. Keeping standards high and avoiding gimmicks or fads, Allegheny believes that its graduates' success is rooted in rigorous liberal arts preparation: experience in multiple disciplines; important historical perspective; and exceptional ability to think critically and to use the English language forcefully and correctly, in writing as well as speech.

The more than 2,100 students come from 37 states and 32 countries. The student-faculty ratio is 14/1; the average class size 22. Allegheny is a high-contact teaching institution, but faculty are also prominent practitioners of the disciplines they teach. When students discover that their chemistry professor is also a leading chemist, for example, they learn the difference between studying a subject and being part of the discipline itself. This explains, in part, the leadership positions to which Alleghenians regularly rise -- in business, government, social service, the professions, and more. Another reason is the Senior Project, a substantial piece of original research done by each student in his or her major field, which not only develops unusual self-confidence, but demands integration of the knowledge and skills developed over four years.

Allegheny is especially well-known for pre-professional education; acceptance rates to law and medical schools roughly double the national average. There is strength throughout all 30 majors, however. Further encouraged are double majors and student-designed majors, which are tailored by the student and advisor to the student's personal goals.

Athletic Facilities

Allegheny offers excellent facilities not only for its 21 varsity teams and seven intercollegiate clubs, but also for its popular intramural and recreational programs.

Robertson Athletic Complex, encompassing 80 picturesque acres on the northwest edge of campus, provides for baseball, cross country, football, lacrosse, rugby, soccer, softball, tennis and track & field, as well as informal recreation. Built in 1948, the brick-and-steel football stadium accommodates 3,500 spectators and the working press. The Frank B. Fuhrer Field included an eight-lane, Olympic-style track, FieldTurf field, lights and a state-of-the-art scoreboard. A 1986 addition included locker rooms and a large training center. Other additions include 12 lighted tennis courts with U.S. Open surface, dugouts for the baseball field, and press boxes and scoreboards for the baseball, football and soccer complexes.

The Wise Sport and Fitness Center opened in October of 1997, quadrupling the space available for all athletics and recreational programs. The Center includes a performance arena which seats 1,000, a spacious multi-purpose sports and recreation forum, and facilities for personal fitness activities.

The Wise Center is connected to the Mellon Recreation Building, housing a six-lane, 25-yard pool with separate diving well. The gallery seats 650. Mellon also contains racquetball courts, locker rooms and additional athletics offices. The golf team hosts home events at The Country Club north of campus.

Denison University

Denison University is a private, coeducational college of liberal arts and sciences. Founded in 1831 as a literary and theological institution by frontier Baptists, Denison has since evolved into an independently administered and financed university providing students with a challenging academic curriculum of the highest quality and a vast array of diverse extracurricular programs. The University offers three different bachelor's degrees (B.A., B.S. and B.F.A.) among 48 major fields of study. There are also interdepartmental majors and individually designed majors for those who desire a truly personalized education.

Full-time enrollment is 2,162, divided nearly equally between men and women. About one-third are residents of Ohio and another third are from the Mid-Atlantic or New England regions. In a typical year, all 50 states are represented and international students come to Denison from more than 30 countries around the world. Ethnic minorities make up approximately 10 percent of the student population.

Denison operates on a two-semester academic calendar from September to May. The three-week May Term is a period for students to travel or take advantage of numerous internships with professors, corporate organizations and government agencies. More than 500 courses and 800 classes are offered each year; the average class size is 19, with a student/faculty ratio of approximately 10/1. About half of Denison's graduates continue their education at graduate and professional schools across the United States and abroad. Each year, Denison grads are accepted to top law, medical, dental and business schools. The University's Career Development Center assists students in their preparation for these programs. Adam Weinberg became Denison's 20th president on July 1, 2013.

Athletic Facilities

Denison boasts some of the finest facilities for athletic completion among the nation's small colleges. With the $38 million renovation of the Mitchell Center complete for the 2013-14 academic year, Denison features a modern, multi-faceted facility that will act as a cornerstone for the college's recreation and athletic ventures for decades to come.

The renovated Mitchell Center features the 50x25 meter Olympic size Trumbull Aquatics Center which is the new home for Big Red swimming & diving. The facility features seating for 1,000 spectators, ample deck space, a state-of-the-art timing system, two large video boards and a separate diving well. Adjacent to the aquatics center is The Red Zone which is the new home of the Denison Athletics Hall of Fame. It also features plenty of seating for students and visitors in addition to an interactive touchscreen display that chronicles the history of Denison athletics.

The Crown Fitness Center is located on the footprint of the former Gregory Pool and features 47 cardio machines and over 30 free-weight/plate loaded machines for strength training. The Mitchell Fieldhouse was built in 1994 and features a regulation six-lane, 200-meter indoor track as well as four tennis courts for indoor play. Just down the hall sits the venerable Livingston Gymnasium, home to Denison's basketball and volleyball programs. Built in 1949, Livingston Gym, seats 1,800 spectators and combined with Alumni Memorial Field House, four regulation basketball courts are available to the campus community for intramurals or varsity practice. Alumni Memorial Field House also is home to the new Waddell Golf Facility. During inclement weather, when the 18-hole championship Donald Ross designed Granville Golf Course is unavailable, the Waddell Golf Facility features a high definition golf simulator, two hitting stalls and an adjustable putting surface.

Deeds-Field Piper Stadium opened in 1922 and is the home of Denison football, field hockey, outdoor track & field, and both Big Red lacrosse teams. In 2006 the facility underwent a $3 million renovation that included the installation of FieldTurf, a new synthetic Olympic-size track, new concession areas and a brick retaining wall that surrounds the stadium. Four 75-foot light standards were also added, equipping the facility for night contests.

Just a few steps away from the stadium is the lighted Barclay-Thomsen Field for soccer. Twelve Varsity Tennis Courts (six lighted) sit between the Mitchell Center and Barclay-Thomsen Field, while just across Pearl St. sits Big Red Field, home of Denison baseball and the Denison Softball Field. In 2006 both facilities were equipped with lights, and new press boxes with sound systems have been recently added at both fields.

DePauw University

Founded in 1837 by the Methodist church, DePauw University is a nationally-recognized, leading liberal arts college in Greencastle, Indiana, dedicated to educating 2,300 students from across the country and around the globe. Connected to the liberal arts college is one of the nation's first Schools of Music. For over 175 years, DePauw has created an atmosphere of intellectual challenge and social engagement that prepares students for lifelong success.

Academics at DePauw push students to gain broad exposure to multiple disciplines before narrowing their focus. DePauw offers dozens of majors and minors, a handful of honors and fellows programs, and a set of experiential learning opportunities that challenge students within and beyond the classroom. Read more about academics at DePauw.

Building networks has never been more important than it is right now. At DePauw, students make connections through student-run clubs and organizations, NCAA Division III athletics and other sports, fraternities and sororities, and service organizations. Learn more about student life.

DePauw alumni go on to careers in academia, medicine, law, music, finance, education and numerous other fields. They are surgeons, actors, legal advocates and environmental activists. DePauw takes pride in having given each one the confidence to take risks and the tools to realize their goals.

Athletic Facilities

DePauw's athletics facilities include the Lilly Center and the athletics campus. The Lilly Center houses the Raymond "Gaumey" Neal Fieldhouse (basketball and volleyball), the Charles P. Erdmann Natatorium (swimming and diving) and the Welch Fitness Center.

The main section of the Center is the Neal Fieldhouse which includes a 2,400-seat basketball and volleyball arena and three multipurpose courts. The Erdmann Natatorium includes a 25-yard x 25-meter, 10-lane swimming pool with one- and three meter diving boards.

Opened in the fall of 2014, the Welch Fitness Center is a two-story, 16,000-square foot state-of-the-art fitness space. It features the latest fitness equipment designed to serve student-athletes and the DePauw community. The new facility more than triples the size of the previous fitness center. With the increased footprint, the facility provides a venue fully capable of accommodating DePauw's integrated training model—the University's preferred approach—in which student-athletes train alongside non-athlete students.

The athletics campus is located west of the main campus and includes Blackstock Stadium (football, track and field), Blackstock Courts (outdoor tennis) Indoor Tennis and Track Center, Reavis Stadium (field hockey, lacrosse, soccer), softball field and Walker Field (baseball).

Built in 1941, Blackstock Stadium underwent a renovation in 2013 that included the addition of AstroTurf's GameDay Grass™ 3D Xtreme synthetic turf and a new 8-lane Beynon 2000 all-weather track with inside steeplechase pit, four long jump/triple jump runways, two pole vault runways, and high jump venue. Multiple throwing areas are located behind the stadium.

The Blackstock Courts, resurfaced in the summer of 2016, consist of eight all-weather tennis courts which served as hosts to the 2001 NCAA Division III Tennis Championships. The tennis teams also train and compete in the adjacent indoor tennis facility, housing six Deco-Turf courts.

The 132,500-square foot indoor tennis and track center served as the host site for the 2003 and 2010 NCAA Division III Men's and Women's Indoor Track and Field Championships. The Jim Hollensteiner Track and multipurpose facility features a 200-meter, six-lane track with an eight-lane straightaway and a Mondo Super-X spike-proof surface. The infield includes a competition area for field events and space for three basketball courts. Features such as drop-down netting allow practice opportunities for baseball, field hockey, football, lacrosse, golf and soccer.

Reavis Stadium opened in the fall of 2014 and includes a synthetic turf competition field as well as a synthetic practice field. The stadium seats 750 and includes four varsity locker rooms.

The softball field was completed in 1997 and is configured with the fence a distance of 200' down the lines and to centerfield.

Walker Baseball Field measure 330 feet down the lines, 375 to the power alleys and 400 to straight-away centerfield. The facility includes in-ground dugouts, two full-sized AstroTurf batting cages with an eight-station hitting area, two regulation-sized bullpen mounds on both home and visitor sides with AstroTurf catching areas and a full infield tarpaulin.

Hiram College

Founded in 1850, Hiram College continues today as one of the nation's most well respected liberal arts institutions. Located in Northeast Ohio's Western Reserve Area, Hiram attracts students from throughout the United States and 24 countries. Hiram's academic calendar, known as the Hiram Plan, is unique to the nation.

The College offers students one of the country's oldest and most respected study abroad programs. More than 50 percent of Hiram students study abroad during their four years on campus. Recognized as a Baccalaureate-I institution by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, Hiram is one of only 13 percent of colleges and universities to be awarded a chapter of the prestigious honor society Phi Beta Kappa. Hiram enrolls 1,240 students in its traditional program and more than 300 adult learners in the Weekend College, the first program of its kind in Ohio.

Athletic Facilities

Among the benefits enjoyed by all Hiram College students is access to outstanding athletic and recreational facilities on campus. These facilities provide ample opportunities for student-athletes to train, practice, and play while also allowing for plenty of usage by the intramural and club sport programs.

The Hiram College Sports Complex is the home for intercollegiate, intramural, club and recreational sports, and exercise. The Complex consists of outdoor competition venues and the Les and Kathy Coleman Sports, Recreation, and Fitness Center, which was completed in 2005 and is one of the finest facilities in the NCAC, housing indoor competition venues. The Coleman Sports Center includes a competition gymnasium, two separate field-houses, a fitness center, weight room, racquetball courts, a pool, and an indoor track, along with a presentation of Hiram's athletic history and other facilities. The existing Harley C. and Mary Hoover Price Gymnasium includes Hollinger Court, a newly refurbished hardwood performance arena with seating capacity for 2,000, and serves as the primary indoor competition facility. The Alumni Memorial Pool is an Olympic-sized, six-lane, 50-meter facility that is home to the Terrier swimming & diving teams. The natatorium features a spacious, elevated grandstand for spectators. The T. Alfred and C. Inex Fleming Fieldhouse has undergone extensive interior and exterior renovations and houses two courts with a new synthetic surface perfect for a variety of usages, training rooms, classrooms, and a locker room area. The facility also houses the intramural program and provides athletic teams with an indoor practice facility in inclement weather.

The Dr. Myrtis E. Herndon Field, a state-of-the-art softball complex, features a game field with an all-dirt infield and a natural grass outfield with a warning track, full-size brick dugouts for home and visiting teams, storage areas, and practice space. The angular outfield dimensions provide a marked contrast from the symmetrical parks found at most college softball fields. Hiram's largest outdoor facility is the Charles A. Henry Field, home to the Hiram football and lacrosse teams. Henry Field can accommodate more than 2,000 fans and its two-story, wired press box is regarded as one of the finest in the NCAC and NCAA Division III. Lights and a synthetic turf field were added in time for the 2011 season. The baseball team plays at the Robert O. Fishel Field and the soccer teams play at the Hiram Soccer Complex. All three of these venues are offset by the beautiful Western Reserve landscape.

Kenyon College

Kenyon College is a private liberal arts institution with a 192-year reputation for teaching students to think critically, to question the world and their place in it, and to communicate with clarity and conviction. Kenyon's strong academic program annually sends a large percentage of its graduates to the nation's leading graduate and professional schools.

Kenyon is situated in the central Ohio village of Gambier, population 2,000. Many members of the faculty and administration reside in the picturesque village, forming a unique community of learning. Gambier is five miles east of Mount Vernon, 50 miles north of Columbus and 100 miles south of Cleveland.

Founded in 1824 by Episcopal Bishop Philander Chase, Kenyon is one of the oldest private colleges west of the Allegheny mountains. In the 1800s, Kenyon educated many of the nation's leaders, including President Rutherford B. Hayes and Lincoln cabinet member Edwin M. Stanton. Twentieth-century graduates include the late Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme, actor Paul Newman, poet Robert Lowell, author E.L. Doctorow, and many leaders in science, medicine, law, literature and business. The Kenyon Review, founded in 1939 by poet and critic John Crowe Ransom, is now edited by Kenyon's English department faculty and enjoys world-wide literary prominence.

Kenyon became a coeducational institution in 1969. Enrollment is approximately 1,650.

Athletic Facilities

Kenyon is home to one of the most exciting athletic centers of any small college in the country. Spacious, welcoming, architecturally stunning and equipped with top-flight facilities, the Kenyon Athletic Center opened in January 2006.

Among the Center's features are: an Olympic-sized pool, an indoor track and indoor tennis courts, a recreational gym, a 12,000-square-foot weight and fitness area, squash and racquetball courts, as well as multipurpose rooms for aerobics, dance, and yoga. Varsity athletes have ample locker-room space and access to the sports-medicine and training suite. The Center contains Tomsich Arena, home to the varsity volleyball and basketball teams, as well as a cafe, study lounges, conference rooms, a broadcast video lab and a 120-seat auditorium/movie theater that can be used to produce and screen game films while providing another campus venue for movies and lectures.

The building, twice named the Best Athletic Facility by The Princeton Review, complements many of the attractive sites that Kenyon already uses for its home athletic events. The baseball team competes at McCloskey Field, the softball team at its new complex and both soccer teams, as well as the women's lacrosse team, compete on Mavec Field. The Kenyon men's lacrosse, football and field hockey teams all play on McBride Field, which sports an UBU Sports Speed S5-M synthetic turf system. Surrounding McBride field is the completely renovated Wilder Track, which is home to the Lords and Ladies track and field teams.

Oberlin College

Oberlin College is the most national of all liberal arts colleges. Its students consistently come from every state in the nation as well as from many foreign countries. Oberlin is unique in that it combines one of the nation's foremost liberal arts colleges with a world-famous conservatory of music. Moreover, the Oberlin Conservatory is the only one devoted entirely to the training of musicians at the undergraduate level. The presence of the two divisions on one campus encourages a broad view of areas of interest and an awareness of their connection. Students in one division often enroll in courses in the other. Enrollment averages 2,300 in the College and 500 in the Conservatory.

The College of Arts and Sciences awards the B.A. degree and offers strong programs in all areas of the humanities, natural sciences and social sciences; the Conservatory of Music awards the B.Mus. degree in performance, composition, music history, music education, historical performance, electronic and computer music, and jazz studies. A five-year, double-degree program leading to both the B.A. and B.Mus. is offered, and selected programs in both divisions award master's degrees.

Founded in 1833, Oberlin was the nation's first coeducational college and an early leader in the education of blacks. By the turn of the century, one-third of the nation's black graduates of predominately white colleges had graduated from Oberlin. In addition, more Oberlin graduates earn Ph.D.s than do graduates of any other undergraduate institution.

Oberlin's size is a distinct asset -- it is large enough to offer some 900 courses, yet small enough for students to make contributions to the community. Students are encouraged to take responsibility for their program of study and to spend at least one semester off campus. Winter Term allows further time for individual projects. Concerts and theatrical productions abound, and the Allen Memorial Art Museum is recognized as one of the nation's finest college museums.

Athletic Facilities

The Jesse Philips Physical Education Center, a 115,000 square-foot facility, is the hallmark of Oberlin's athletic complex. Philips Gymnasium is the home site of the basketball and volleyball teams. In addition to hosting numerous intramural and recreational activities, the center houses Carr Pool, the site of two NCAA and 14 NCAC championship meets. The Philips Center has two weight rooms, a cardio-fitness area, racquetball, squash and table tennis courts and an area set up for practicing golf. The John W. Heisman Club Field House, linked to the Philips Center, includes a six-lane 200-meter track and four tennis courts.

The new Austin E. Knowlton Athletics Complex and Dick Bailey Field, dedicated in September 2014, replaces the outdated Savage Football Stadium and features an all-weather, multipurpose field with artificial turf and lights, suitable for nearly every athletics team or club sport on campus. It will serve as the home for the Yeomen football team, field hockey team and men's and women's lacrosse teams. The complex also includes locker rooms for all of Oberlin's outdoor varsity team.

Other outdoor facilities include the Robert Kahn Track and Fred Shults Field (Track & Field, Men's & Women's Soccer), Dill Field (Baseball) and Culhane Field (Softball). In addition the men's and women's tennis teams play across 12 courts, which are named in honor of legendary coach Don Hunsinger. Kahn track features an eight-lane all-weather running track, while Shults Field is one of the finest all-natural playing surfaces at the NCAA Division III level. In 2014, the infield at Dill Field was replaced with an all-turf surface to help accommodate weather issues in the spring. Other outdoor areas include 22 playing and practice fields, a five-mile cross country course, and a 1.25 mile fitness trail.

Ohio Wesleyan University

Founded in 1842, Ohio Wesleyan is an independent undergraduate liberal arts university affiliated with The United Methodist Church. Ohio Wesleyan confers the Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Fine Arts, and Bachelor of Music degrees. The University also offers combined-degree (3-2) programs in computer science and engineering. Degree programs are offered through 22 academic departments and several interdisciplinary programs. Distinctive features of the academic program include the Arneson Institute for Practical Politics and Public Affairs; The Woltemade Center for Economics, Business, and Entrepreneurship; the Sagan National Colloquium; the Honors Program and opportunities within The OWU Connection for independent research, internships, and off-campus study.

Ohio Wesleyan employs 140 full-time faculty, of whom 39 percent are female and 11 percent are minority. Nearly 100 percent of the tenure-track faculty hold a Ph.D. or the highest degree attainable in their field. The student-faculty ratio is about 11:1. Ohio Wesleyan currently enrolls about 1650 students, 53 percent female/47 percent male, from 43 states and 33 countries. About 53 percent of the students are from Ohio. Multicultural enrollment is 27 percent.

Diversity, creativity, leadership, and service are emphasized throughout the co-curriculum. Students are active in nearly 100 clubs and organizations, as well as departmental student boards, academic honoraries, music and theatre productions, fraternities and sororities, and an extensive intramural sports program. More than 85 percent of the students are involved in community service projects, and more than 75 percent of the students compete in varsity, club, or intramural sports.

Athletic Facilities

The crown jewel of Ohio Wesleyan's athletic facilities is Selby Stadium, home of the football, field hockey, track & field, and lacrosse contingents.

A FieldTurf artificial playing surface was installed for the 2014-15 academic year and lights were installed for the 2010-11 academic year, making Selby one of the most impressive venues among NCAA Division III institutions. The fourth-largest college-owned field in NCAA Division III, the facility seats 9,100. Selby also houses the George Gauthier Track, an Ameritan FP surface installed for the 2006-07 academic year, and was host to the NCAA Division III outdoor track & field championships in 2011 and 2014.

The Jay Martin Soccer Complex hosts soccer, primarily under the lights, and is widely regarded as one of the Midwest's finest facilities for the sport.

The centerpiece of Ohio Wesleyan's athletic facilities is the Branch Rickey Physical Education Center, prized for both its size and versatility. The Richard Gordon Field House floor was resurfaced in November 2008, and the track was refinished with a state-of-the-art encapsulated surface in December 2008. Indoor practice for fall and spring sports can be handled there as well: floor space is larger than a football field, accommodating four courts for tennis and two for basketball and volleyball. Branch Rickey Arena, seating 1450, hosts varsity basketball and volleyball contests. Also in the Center are five handball/racquetball courts, and a squash court. Offices and locker rooms also are part of Edwards Gymnasium, which was completely refurbished in 2014-15 and adjoins both the new Simpson Querrey Fitness Center and the Rickey Center.

The Meek Aquatics & Recreation Center, a 10-lane, geothermally heated facility, opened in fall 2010.

Softball is played at Margaret Sagan Field. Baseball is played at Littick Field, and tennis at the Luttinger Family Tennis Center.

Wabash College

Founded in 1832, Wabash College is a private liberal arts college for men located in Crawfordsville, Indiana. Its mission is to educate men to think critically, act responsibly, lead effectively, and live humanely.

Wabash's liberal arts curriculum includes 23 majors, with strong pre-professional programs in health sciences, law and business. Wabash, jointly with Columbia and Washington universities, offers a 3-2 engineering program, as well as a strong teacher education program. The College draws young men from approximately 30 states and 24 countries.

Students at Wabash follow only one rule, the Gentleman's Rule: "A Wabash man will conduct himself, at all times, as a gentleman and responsible citizen." Consequently, Wabash students enjoy more freedom than students at other colleges and universities across the nation. The students' ability to make the link between the trust the College places in them and the responsibility that goes with such freedom helps them lead wise and productive lives.

Outside the classroom, Wabash offers a wide range of activities, including nine national fraternities, workshops, seminars, visiting artists and lecturers, films, music, theater, forensics, and intramural sports. Wabash men are also active in community service projects ranging from on- and off-campus mentoring, tutoring and coaching, to fund-raising for local non-profit agencies.

Athletic Facilities

The College's football team competes in Byron P. Hollett Little Giant Stadium, a 5,000-seat stadium that overlooks the Wabash campus. A new artificial surface and new scoreboard were added to the facility in 2010. The $20 million Allen Athletics and Recreation Center, dedicated in January, 2001, provides 170,000 square feet of room to play. The facility houses the Class of 1950 Natatorium, an eight-lane pool with a moveable bulkhead and a 375-seat balcony. Track athletes compete indoors on the 200-meter Robert H. Johnson Track in the Knowing Fieldhouse and outdoors on J. Owen Huntsman Track.

Chadwick Court, home to the Wabash basketball team for most of the last century, has been modernized and now seats approximately 1,800. The Max E. Servies Wrestling Room and the Class of 1952 Fitness Center, as well as racquetball courts, equipment room, and training room are also part of the Allen Center.

Wabash soccer, and beginning in 2015, men's lacrosse competes at Mud Hollow Stadium, which was renovated in 2011. Tennis players enjoy the three indoor and six outdoor courts that comprise the John P. Collett Tennis Center. A new baseball stadium, Goodrich Ballpark, for use by baseball team, opened in the spring of 2011. It has individual seating for 245 fans, scoreboard, rest rooms, concession stand and press box.

Wittenberg University

Wittenberg is an independent liberal arts university of high quality and outstanding reputation. It was founded in 1845 by pioneering Lutherans who sought to integrate their European heritage with the vitality of westward-expanding America. It became Wittenberg's fundamental purpose to educate the "creative minority of a civilization," and to develop in harmony the intellectual, spiritual, aesthetic, social and physical qualities which characterize wholeness of person.

Wittenberg encourages students to pursue opportunities for independent study as well as off-campus and international programs. The importance of a strong community spirit also is emphasized and one way this is achieved is through the community service program. Every sophomore is required to participate in a 30-hour community service project of his or her own design.

Wittenberg has always been committed to diversity. Although the University is affiliated with the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America, virtually every religious faith is represented on campus. Of the 1,950 students, more than 50 percent are from outside Ohio, including an ever-growing international student body representing more than 40 countries. Nearly 15 percent of the student body comes from varied racial and cultural backgrounds. Wittenberg's strong academic reputation is borne in the fact that the University has a chapter in Phi Beta Kappa.

Athletic Facilities

The Wittenberg athletic facilities are a unique blend of old and new, providing opportunities for a wide variety of recreational and fitness activities. The Health, Physical Education and Recreation Center (HPERC) is the centerpiece of the complex and a hub of activity throughout the year. The main unit, Pam Evans Smith Arena, can be converted to three full-sized basketball courts or three volleyball courts. It seats 3,000 spectators for intercollegiate athletic events, and 4,300 for concerts and other public events. A second unit houses four racquetball courts with an upper balcony for instruction and two golf practice rooms with state-of-the-art equipment. Wittenberg's Natatorium features a 25-meter by 25-yard swimming pool with one- and three-meter diving boards and a spectator viewing area. The Kremchek Family Athletic Training Room was completed in 2012 and includes the latest in training equipment. The HPERC also includes the historic Wittenberg Field House, the Heinzen Strength Center, and the Bob Rosencrans Hall of Honor Fitness Center.

Edwards-Maurer Field and Earl F. Morris Track were renovated in 2005. Edwards-Maurer Field has an artificial playing surface and Earl F. Morris Track is a 400-meter track outfitted with a cutting-edge surface. The entire complex is lighted, and it serves as home to the Tiger football, track, field hockey, men's and women's soccer, and men's and women's lacrosse teams. The David and Georgianna Albright Tennis Complex was completed in 1997. It houses 12 tennis courts that were re-surfaced in 2012. Six of the courts are lighted, including two sunken center courts with space for seating.

Betty Dillahunty Field is the home of the Tiger softball team, situated just two blocks off the campus. Less than two miles away is Carleton Davidson Stadium, which opened in 2004 and is the home of Tiger baseball. Owned and maintained by the City of Springfield, Carleton Davidson Stadium has seating capacity of 1,061, a media center, and locker rooms with showers. The Tigers share the facility with the Champion City Kings, a collegiate summer baseball franchise that started play in the Prospect League in 2014.

The College of Wooster

The College of Wooster is America's premiere college for mentored undergraduate research. Founded in 1866, Wooster enrolls approximately 2,000 students from 45 states and 44 countries, and offers more than 40 academic programs in the sciences, humanities, business, and the arts. A student-faculty ratio of 11:1 ensures close engagement and personal attention through all four years.

Wooster offers an excellent, comprehensive liberal arts education, culminating in a rigorous senior project, in which each student works one-on-one with a faculty mentor to conceive, organize and complete a significant research project on a topic of the student's own choosing. Through this distinctive program, every Wooster student develops abilities valued by employers and graduate schools alike.

In addition, Wooster boasts 120 student organization groups, from an improv comedy group and dozens of musical ensembles, to a student-run investment club that manages a $4 million portfolio for the College's endowment. Also, close to a third of all Wooster students participate in intercollegiate athletics, where over the last 11 years, the Fighting Scots have produced All-Americans in 13 different sports as well as 27 Academic All-Americans® during that same span.

Athletic Facilities

With the addition of the state-of-the-art, 123,000-square-foot Scot Center in January 2012, Wooster's athletic facilities are on par with some of the best at the collegiate level. The Scot Center features an NCAA regulation 200 meter running track; indoor long jump, triple jump and pole vault; along with a fitness center with a full array of circuit training stations, traditional and elliptical running machines, rowing machines, and free weights; and batting cages and other equipment for indoor baseball practice.

Connected to the Scot Center is the Armington Physical Education Center (P.E.C.), which houses Timken Gymnasium. Home to Wooster's men's and women's basketball teams and volleyball team, Timken has the largest seating capacity (3,400) in the North Coast Athletic Conference. Also within the P.E.C. is Timken Natatorium and its six-lane pool, two diving boards, a dry-land training area and gallery seating for 500.

John P. Papp Stadium was renovated in 2009 with artificial turf and lights, and is home to Scot football, field hockey, men's and women's lacrosse, and track and field events. The stadium seats 4,500 and features a large press box, an electronic scoreboard, and an eight-lane, 400-meter track. Art Murray Field is home to the Wooster baseball team and in addition to its two dugouts, electronic scoreboard, and seating for 200, it was upgraded with a synthetic playing surface across the infield in 2012.

The men's and women's soccer teams play its home games at Carl Dale Memorial Field, which is adjacent to the baseball complex and has bleacher seating for 1,000.

The men's and women's tennis teams play most of their matches outdoors on one of 10 courts at the General D.J. Hard Memorial complex, but have the luxury of moving to one of the four indoor courts within the Scot Center if weather dictates it. Finally, one of the more beautiful facilities on campus is the L.C. Boles Golf Memorial Golf Course, which is a nine-hole layout that rolls along 3,000 yards of scenic Ohio Countryside. The course features a driving range and two practice greens. Wooster's cross country teams also use this course to train and compete.

NCAC History

The fall of 1984 launched the first playing season for the experiment called the North Coast Athletic Conference, a new playing conference in the NCAA's Division III.

The Conference's new principles and goals were revolutionary in the conservative world of college athletics at the time. As we mark the NCAC's 33rd year of operation, the Conference, with its strong commitment to equity and excellence, has been a model to change the face of college athletics at all levels in the NCAA. That leadership in the early 1980s has also trickled down and changed the face of sports programs at the high school level.

Most prominent was the NCAC's stance, written into the preamble of its constitution, that women's sports would have equity with men's sports. Except for a few conferences that had just added women's sports (like the Big Ten in 1983), the NCAC was the first to state that this was a key goal of operation. Hard to believe today, but in 1984, most every conference was setup for men's college sports only—and then, just for football and men's basketball. NCAC members withdrew from conferences that resisted adding women's sports.

"Marquee sports, major and minor sports, revenue-producing sports - all were catchphrases of the early 1980s," said Dennis Collins, the NCAC's Executive Director for its first 25 seasons. "The environment was not only completely different than today, it was openly hostile to women's sports and every sport other than football and men's basketball."

NCAC founders decided that women's sports and all sports were important to their colleges and stated so in their new constitution (there are now 23 NCAC sports). As a result, the NCAC emphasized all sports, including swimming & diving, soccer, field hockey, and volleyball, in addition to football and men's basketball. This also was wildly revolutionary. Some of the major results of these decisions were that coaching staffs had to be increased, fields and facilities expanded and the overall budgets of NCAC colleges jumped dramatically. These proactive positions were well ahead of the punitive nature of the Title IX debate, which came in the later 1980s.

In a photo that appeared in Sports Illustrated in June, 2009, Wooster pitcher Mark Miller walks off the field as the University of St. Thomas celebrates its national championship. The Fighting Scots tore through the tournament to reach the national championship game without dropping a game, only to lose twice to the Tommies, including the deciding title game that went 12 innings. Wooster has twice finished runner-up in the NCAA Division III Baseball Championship.

College Presidents made these decisions, along with key input from their men's and women's athletic administrators and faculty athletic representatives. There is no way these advances could have been made without the commitment of these NCAC presidents.

Presidential leadership was another key principle of the NCAC. This also was rather rare in those days and still is, even today. However, it was the strength of the presidents and their commitment to adding programs, adding budget, and adding facilities, which set the NCAC apart from its competition.

Athletic and academic excellence have not only survived in the NCAC model, they have prospered. Early skeptics labeled the NCAC non-competitive because of its high academics and new principles. How could academically selective colleges, such as the NCAC members, compete with other conferences and in NCAA Championships?

The answer is 66 NCAA National Championships in 32 playing seasons. Each year the NCAC is strongly represented in NCAA post-season competition.

Whether it is the recent national championships by Denison men's swimming or DePauw women's basketball or Wittenberg volleyball, or the College of Wooster's baseball and men's basketball teams going to the Division III Championship games or Ohio Wesleyan winning the men's or women's national soccer crown, or Allegheny winning the NCAA football title, or Kenyon's incredible run of national swimming championships, the men's title run broken by Denison after the Lords claimed 31 straight, the proof is there. The NCAC is one of the elite athletic conferences amongst the 42 in NCAA Division III, the association's largest division.

Consider that in its first six years, the NCAC won national titles in the traditional "power" sports of football (Allegheny, 1990) and men's basketball (Ohio Wesleyan, 1988).

NCAC men's and women's basketball squads have always done well in the national championship series. In addition to Ohio Wesleyan's men's title in 1988, both Wittenberg (1994, 2006) and Wooster (2003, 2007, 2011) have advanced to the Division III Final Four. Wittenberg has made more NCAA Tournament appearances than any other school in Division III. The success of Ohio Wesleyan's women's squad was indicative of the emergence of that sport in the NCAC, as the Bishops advanced to the Women's Division III Final Four in 2001.

NCAC swimming and diving has dominated the national scene to an incredible degree. Kenyon College, under legendary coach Jim Steen, was the equivalent, or better, of John Wooden's UCLA national championship teams in Division I men's basketball. While Wooden won eight straight NCAA titles, he pales somewhat to Steen's squads, which racked up 31 straight men's titles and 23 women's titles (17 consecutively). Denison broke the Kenyon women's streak in 2001, then ended the Kenyon men's streak in 2011 by one point. The Big Red men earned their second championship in 2012 and their third in 2016; Kenyon has brought their impressive total to 34 with championships in 2013, '14 and '15. Kenyon has also added three national women's tennis titles to the NCAC's total of 66 to date.

NCAC soccer has long been amongst the finest in the nation, with Ohio Wesleyan winning the men's crown in 1998 and 2011. Women's soccer has developed at a fast pace, with many good teams around the league, highlighted by Ohio Wesleyan's two national championships.

NCAC History

Ohio Wesleyan claimed the NCAC's first NCAA women's soccer championship with a 1-0 defeat of Amherst in 2001. The Battling Bishops repeated the feat in 2002, topping Messiah, 1-0. Shown above: Ohio Wesleyan celebrates the 2002 title at Artificial Turf Stadium on the campus of Hobart and William Smith Colleges. The back-to-back NCAA Division III titles were the first since the University of California at San Diego won from 1995-97.

Over the past 31 years, the NCAC has had great performances from its baseball squads (five in the World Series), men's and women's lacrosse teams (in the national title games), and outstanding individual performances from golf, cross country and track stars. Volleyball teams routinely make deep runs into the postseason, including Wittenberg's national championship in 2011 and runner-up finish in 2015.

NCAC student-athletes are named to All-America teams on a regular basis, including some earning National Player of the Year honors, such as Ben Lewis of Denison in Division III men's diving in 2016.

Many NCAC coaches have been honored by their peers as National Coach of the Year, including DePauw's Kris Huffman (2013) in women's basketball, Denison's Gregg Parini (2011, 2012, 2016) in men's swimming, Nan Carney-Debord (2001), former women's basketball coach at Ohio Wesleyan and former OWU men's basketball coach Gene Mehaffey (1988). Both Jay Martin and Bob Barnes of Ohio Wesleyan have also been honored as national soccer coaches of the year, while Kenyon's Jess Book and Andy Scott have earned the awards for both men's and women's swimming and women's diving, respectively. And there have been many others in the NCAC's history. Coaches like Denison's Keith Piper in football, Kenyon's Steen and Ohio Wesleyan's Martin are undoubtedly bound for their sport's respective Halls of Fame.

However, NCAC student-athletes give meaning to the word "student". They are among the leaders, as a conference, in winning NCAA Post-Graduate Scholarships and in earning berths on the Academic All-America teams sponsored by the College Sports Information Directors Association. The Conference has featured several NCAA Elite 88/89 winners, which highlight the student-athlete with the highest G.P.A. participating in a national championship event. Kenyon's Ashley Rowatt was the first Division III student-athlete to win the prestigious NCAA Woman of the Year award (2003); as a conference several of our best female student-athletes have been named finalists for that award over the years.

Beyond the steps taken for equity in athletics and the demonstrated athletic and academic excellence, the NCAC has produced leaders at the NCAA level, which have fought for the Conference's ideals at the national level.

Six NCAC Presidents have served on the NCAA's Presidents Council, most recently Tom Chema, former President of Hiram (2011-2014). Two of this group have served as the national chairs of the Presidents Council. Thomas Courtice, President of Ohio Wesleyan, served as chair (2002) to end his four-year tenure (1998-2002) on the Council. His predecessor at OWU, David Warren, also served as chair during his term, 1988-92. This OWU service follows a tradition in the NCAA, with the Reverend Herbert Welch, serving on the founding Executive Committee of the NCAA in 1906, its first year. Wittenberg's William Kinnison and Michele T. Myers and Dale Knobel of Denison also served on the Council. Ohio Wesleyan's Rock Jones currently sits on the Division III Presidents Advisory Group.

Nine NCAC Administrators have served on the NCAA Management Council for Division III, the most notable being Al Van Wie, the retired Wooster athletic director, who also served as an NCAA Vice-President during his tenure, 1986-90. Founding Executive Director Dennis Collins served a four-year term (1992-1996), followed by former Allegheny Associate Athletic Director Maureen Hager (1997-99). Bob Malekoff, the former athletic director at Wooster, served a term and Bob Rosencrans, the former athletic director at Wittenberg, served a partial term in 1992. Garnett Purnell, Director of Athletics at Wittenberg served a four-year term that ended in 2010; and Knobel completed his term in 2012-13. Allegheny Athletic Director Portia Hoeg concluded her stint on the Council as the Vice Chair. DePauw AD, Stevie Baker-Watson is a current member of the Management Council.

Former Wittenberg professor and faculty representative Jeff Ankrom was very active on NCAA committees, including a stint as a Vice President of the national Faculty Athletics Representatives Association. Ankrom also served as the chair of the NCAA DIII Financial Aid Committee. Wittenberg's Wendy Gradwohl finished a stint as the FARA Division III vice president in 2015. The Conference has also been well represented on many national committees, as numerous administrators and coaches have served on sports and legislative committees over the past 32 years.

The bottom line is that the NCAC provides college athletic opportunities for 5,000 student-athletes in 23 sports - without the benefit of a major TV contract, and is funded directly from the regular college budget. Beyond that, NCAC member colleges graduate nearly 85 percent of our student-athletes each year.

NCAC Timeline

February, 1983

The formation of the NCAC is announced at joint news conferences in Cleveland, Columbus and Pittsburgh. Allegheny, Case Western Reserve, Denison, Kenyon, Oberlin, Ohio Wesleyan and Wooster are the seven charter members. Competition is slated to begin in the fall of 1984. Kenyon's Philip Jordan (far left) is elected first North Coast president.

February, 1984

Dennis Collins of Cleveland is named NCAC executive director.

April, 1984

The North Coast announces that it will sponsor championship competition in 21 sports, 11 for men and 10 for women, the most of any NCAA Division III conference at the time.

October, 1984

The Oberlin women's cross country team wins the North Coast's first championship event, which is held at the Delaware Country Club. Vanessa Jones of Ohio Wesleyan is the individual champion. Within the next hour, Allegheny takes the men's title with Wooster's Todd Fach earning top individual honors.

May, 1985

Wooster uses seven team titles and two second-place finishes to win the NCAC's first All-Sports championship. The North Coast completes its inaugural season with 14 of 21 champions ranked nationally. Kenyon takes national titles in men's and women's swimming to lead the way.

October, 1985

In a battle of unbeaten teams, CWRU and Denison square off for the North Coast football championship. CBS films the game and clips are shown nationally during a feature on "The NFL Today." Denison wins and goes on to an undefeated season, claiming the conference title and advancing into the NCAA playoffs -- all with the "archaic" single-wing offense.

March, 1986

The NCAC hosts the NCAA Division III Swimming & Diving Championships in Canton. Kenyon sweeps the men's and women's titles.

November 1986

Denison's Chris Spriggs set major and unique NCAA football record for all divisions. He became the first 4,000-yard rusher to pass for over 2,000 yards.

March 1987

Allegheny men's basketball becomes the first NCAC squad invited to the NCAA Division III Men's Basketball Tournament. The Gator women also were selected for the NCAA Tournament.

May 1987

Denison's Scott Shorney won the long jump championship at the NCAA Division III Championships. He also placed in five final events -- an unprecedented feat in the history of the Div. III Championship. Vince VanBurik of Case Western Reserve claimed the championship in the 800 meters ... Ohio Wesleyan hosts the NCAA Division III Golf Championship at Mansfield's Westbrook Country Club. The Bishops finished ninth, followed by Wooster in 10th ... Ohio Wesleyan men's lacrosse closes out its season with a 9-5 loss to Hobart in the NCAA Div. III Championship game.

December, 1987

Dick Schultz, newly elected executive director of the NCAA, makes a visit to an NCAC Presidents' Council meeting in Columbus. Schultz, as part of a six-month tour, spends two days with the North Coast brass. The visit is a rare Division III stop.

January, 1988

Wooster athletic director Al Van Wie is elected NCAA Division III vice president. George Andrews, professor of math at Oberlin, is named chairman of the NCAA's Faculty Representative Council for Division III. Denison women's athletic director Cheryl Marra is named to the NCAA Committee on Women's Athletics.

March, 1988

Ohio Wesleyan wins the NCAA Division III championship in men's basketball. Bishop senior Scott Tedder is named national Player of the Year.

April, 1988

Ohio Wesleyan's basketball team meets President Ronald Reagan in the Oval Office, a first for a Division III team in any sport ... CWRU's Erwin Grabisna is the first NCAC player to be chosen in the NFL draft. A 6-3, 250-pound defensive end, Grabisna is taken in the sixth round by the Los Angeles Raiders.

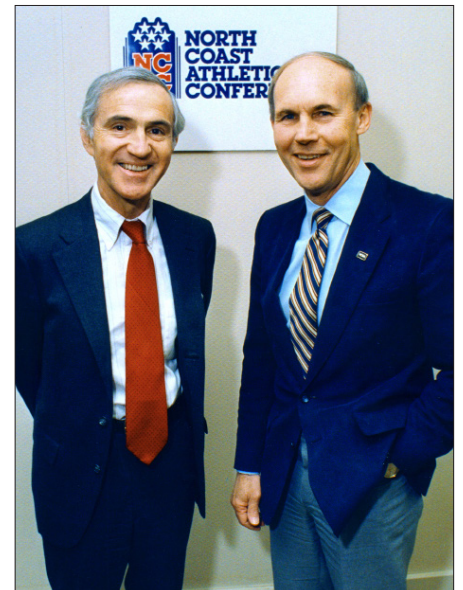

May, 1988

Wooster wins its third NCAC All-Sports championship in four years, withstanding spring surges from Kenyon and Ohio Wesleyan.

June, 1988

Earlham and Wittenberg accept invitations to join the NCAC, pushing conference membership to nine schools in three states. The two schools will begin play in the fall of 1989.

NCAC Timeline

Denison football standout Grant Jones is named NCAA College Division Academic All-American of the Year.

March, 1989

Kenyon wins its 10th straight national championship in men's swimming, a feat never before accomplished by any team in any sport or NCAA division. Kenyon's women's swimmers claim their sixth consecutive national crown. Seven NCAC swim teams finish in the top 20 at the national meet.

May, 1989

A contingent of Kenyon All-America swimmers meets President George Bush at the White House ... Ohio Wesleyan wins its first NCAC All-Sports title, breaking Wooster's grip on the trophy by taking championships in four of eight spring sports.

September, 1989

Earlham and Wittenberg begin playing full NCAC schedules. The NCAC now has nine members spanning three states.

January, 1990

David Warren, president of Ohio Wesleyan and the NCAC, is elected chair of the NCAA Presidents' Commission Division III Subcommittee. In this position, Warren serves as the primary spokesman for Division III.

March, 1990

Oberlin's Ann Gilbert leads the nation in scoring, becoming the third woman in Division III basketball history to average 30 points per game ... Wittenberg wins its first North Coast title, posting a 29-2 record in men's basketball.

May, 1990

Ohio Wesleyan's Keith Rucker and the CWRU duo of Sheila Ballado and Kevin Luthy win individual titles in the shot put, 100-meter hurdles and decathlon, respectively, at the NCAA Track & Field Championships.

December, 1990

Allegheny's football team caps an extraordinary season by claiming the NCAA Division III championship with a 21-14 victory against Lycoming in the Amos Alonzo Stagg Bowl. The Gators finish 13-0-1 under the direction of first-year head coach Ken O'Keefe.

January, 1991

Led by Division III Vice President Al Van Wie, the NCAC heads a broad-based group at the NCAA Convention in an effort to eliminate multi-divisional classification in NCAA sports, including the participation of Division I programs in Division III football.

April, 1991

The NCAC institutes the Scholar-Athlete Award, which will annually honor one male and one female student-athlete from each North Coast school for outstanding academic and athletic achievement.

May, 1991

Ohio Wesleyan becomes the first NCAC member to claim three consecutive All-Sports championships.

October, 1991

Kenyon's Becky Little is one of 10 finalists for the NCAA Woman of the Year award. Little, an All-America swimmer and 1991 magna cum laude graduate, had earlier been named Ohio's Woman of the Year.

November, 1991

Oberlin basketball standout Ann Gilbert is named Honda Division III Athlete of the Year. The Honda award is the most notable honor in Division III women's athletics ... Three NCAC men's soccer teams receive NCAA Tournament berths for the second consecutive year. North Coast champ Ohio Wesleyan caps a 22-2 season with a trip to the national semifinals.

December, 1991

The NCAC is instrumental in the formation of the Intercollegiate Officiating Association, an alliance of NCAA Division III institutions that will oversee all aspects of officiating for its membership.

January, 1992

Denison Wins National Title, Ends Kenyon's Historic 31-Year Streak

On Saturday, March 26, 2011, the longest championship streak in the history of college sports came to an end as the Denison men's swimming and diving team won its first-ever NCAA national title. In what was the closest swimming and diving meet in the history of the NCAA, at any level (Division I, II or III), Denison edged fellow NCAC member Kenyon by one point (500.5 to 499.5) to claim the championship trophy and end Kenyon's 31-year stranglehold on the title. Pretty amazing when you consider that over 3,800 points are scored at the national meet. It all came down one point. It doesn't get any closer than that.

With Denison leading by nine points heading into the final event on the final day of the meet, the 400-yard freestyle relay, the Big Red knew they needed at least a third-place finish to come away with the team championship. Kenyon won the relay in dominating fashion. Denison managed to get the third-place they needed as freshman Spencer Fronk, swimming the anchor leg of the final race in his very first championship, out-touched Emory's anchor at the wall to take the position by just 32 hundredths of a second. The 13 Denison swimmers and two divers set two national records and won four national event titles, while compiling 47 All-America swims and dives at the championship. The 16 Kenyon swimmers turned in one record performance, claimed five event titles and posted 38 All-America swims.

Denison and Kenyon are age-old rivals separated by just 24-miles of winding road in Central Ohio. They have boasted the top-two swimming and diving programs in the nation for the better part of 20 years. One common thread between both sides of the rivalry, Denison head coach Gregg Parini:

- Parini, is a 1982 graduate of Kenyon College, where he swam for former Lords' skipper, Jim Steen.
- Parini was a sophomore member of Kenyon's first national championship in 1980, when the Lords' streak began. He would go on to become an 18-time All-American and a seven-time national champion at Kenyon.
- Parini, who is entering his 29th year at Denison, accepted the head swimming position in 1987, and in 2001, his women's swimming team ended Kenyon's streak of 17-consecutive NCAA women's swimming & diving national championships, which still stands as the longest consecutive championship streak at any level of women's college sports.

Branch Rickey Mentor Program

The North Coast Athletic Conference launched the Branch Rickey Mentor Program in the fall of 2012. The program provides a professional shadowing experience that matches veteran NCAC athletic administrators and coaches with female and minority students who aspire to a career in college athletics. The experience provides mentees access to the full scope of what it means to be a collegiate athletics professional on and off the courts and fields. The program aims to offer a realistic experience so that students can begin their professional lives as successful young employees. Mentees will have a one-on-one relationship with their mentors throughout the year.

In its first year, 10 juniors and seniors with a serious interest in pursuing a career as a coach, athletic administrator or sports information director were selected into the inaugural class. The students were paired with current NCAC Athletic Directors, Senior Women Administrators and Head Coaches. Student-athletes interested in coaching were paired with a coach on his/her campus, but not his/her own coach. The year began and ended with program-wide professional development events. The year kicked off with a leadership-themed day, hosted by Oberlin College. Mentor pairs heard from Oberlin President Marvin Krislov, NCAA Executive Vice President Dr. Bernard Franklin and former Olympian and World Champion Kristine (Lilly) Heavey, former member of the U.S. Women's National Soccer Team. The year concluded with a presentation on leadership by Ohio Wesleyan's Jay Martin and a special advance screening of the film, "42".

The NCAC proudly honors the leadership of Branch Rickey, whose connections to the Conference run deep. He earned a BA degree at Ohio Wesleyan in 1904 following a distinguished academic and playing/coaching career. His first job following graduation from OWU was at Allegheny, where he was the football and baseball coach and athletic director. Following his stint at Allegheny he coached the University of Michigan baseball team, while earning a law degree at the school. He then entered professional baseball in 1905, serving as a player, general manager and president of the St. Louis Cardinals (the Gas House Gang), president of the Brooklyn Dodgers and finally, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, ending in 1955. He is a 1967 inductee of the Pro Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, NY and is widely recognized as one of the most important baseball executives in the sport's history as he invented the modern farm system, he pioneered the utilization of baseball statistics and most famously in 1945, he became the first executive to break baseball's color line when he signed Jackie Robinson, who became the major leagues' first African-American player in the 20th century. Rickey died in 1965 at age 83, following 50 years in major league baseball as a player and administrator.

Dennis Collins, Executive Director 1984-2009

Dennis Collins
Executive Director
1984-2009

Dennis Collins became the first Executive Director of the North Coast Athletic Conference when the league began its inaugural playing season in 1984. For 25 years, he led one of the most successful conferences in all three divisions of the NCAA. Behind his leadership, the Conference provided quality intercollegiate experiences for more than 5,000 student-athletes annually in 22 championship sports.

Collins was a respected national leader and had served as President of the NCAA Div. III Commissioners Association, a group he helped to organize in 1989. From 1992-1996, he served as a member of the NCAA Council, the national association's equivalent of a board of directors. In the same period, he chaired the NCAA District IV Postgraduate Scholarship Committee, served on the Division Special Restructuring Taskforce and in 1999 and completed a six-year term on the NCAA Interpretations Committee. He was awarded the prestigious Meritorious Service Award from the Div. III Commissioners' Association in 2006.

He was a founder of the Intercollegiate Officiating Association, a cooperative amongst 27 NCAA/NAIA colleges that provides regional officiating services. Collins served 17 years as that group's chief administrator. He served on Presidential Advisory/Visiting Committees at both Carnegie Mellon University and Bates College. He also served on the Games Committee of five Kickoff & Pigskin Classics, college football's opening games, between 1984 and 2002. Over the years, Collins guided two membership expansions of the Conference—one in 1988, adding Earlham and Wittenberg, and the addition of Hiram and Wabash Colleges in 1998.

Prior to coming to the NCAC, Collins served five years as communications director for the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics. He also was sports information director/athletic-alumni director at Case Western Reserve University and news director/sports information director at Otterbein College. For an eight-year period, he operated his own firm, Collins Communications, which provided public relations and photographic services to regional and national clients such as the National Football League.

He was a graduate of The Ohio State University with an undergraduate degree in journalism and served four years in the U.S. Coast Guard.

All-Sports Championship, 2015-16

Denison Wins 15th NCAC All-Sports Title

Denison University posted top-five finishes in 20-of-23 championship sports to earn the North Coast Athletic Conference All-Sports Championship for the league-leading 15th time in history. The Big Red opened the 2015-16 campaign with top-five finishes in six of the seven fall sports, and continued their dominance in the winter season with five more top-five finishes, which included their eighth straight title in men's swimming & diving and their fourth title all-time in women's basketball. DU locked up its All-Sports crown in the spring season with nine additional top-five finishes, which included league titles in men's lacrosse, women's lacrosse and women's tennis. The Big Red won their fifth All-Sports title in the last eight years with 176.5 points, topping DePauw (155.0) by 21.5 points.

Four of the Big Red's 20 top-five finishes came in second place in women's soccer, women's swimming & diving, men's tennis and women's outdoor track & field, while third-place showings were accomplished in field hockey, women's indoor track & field, women's golf, softball and baseball.

DePauw, which won the All-Sports title a year ago, finished second in the final standings after totaling 155.0 points during the 2015-16 academic year. The Tigers earned top-five finishes in 15 championship sports, which included winning conference titles in women's soccer and softball. Ohio Wesleyan finished third overall with 151.0 points, while Wittenberg was fourth with 139.0. OWU tied with Denison for the most NCAC titles during the year with five, hoisting trophies in men's indoor track & field, women's indoor track & field, men's outdoor track & field, women's outdoor track & field and sharing the men's basketball crown with Wooster, while Wittenberg collected titles in volleyball, men's golf and women's golf. Kenyon rounded out the top-five in the All-Sports standings in fifth-place with 136.5 points, followed by Allegheny (120.0), Wooster (118.0), Oberlin (115.0), Wabash (67.5) and Hiram (49.5).

The All-Sports champion earns the Dennis M. Collins All-Sports Trophy, given annually to the school that performs the best across the NCAC's 23 sports. Ten points are awarded for a first-place finish, nine for a second, eight for a third, and so on. Men's and women's performances are combined, exemplifying the North Coast's commitment to equity and balance among programs. Wooster won three of the first four All-Sports championships, interrupted only by Denison in year two. Ohio Wesleyan followed with a six-year run, leading to titles by Wooster (twice), Wittenberg (once), Denison (nine), OWU (twice), a tie between Denison and OWU in 2009. Wittenberg earned its second All-Sports title in 2010, followed by Denison in 2011 and DePauw in 2012. Denison then claimed back-to-back titles in 2013 and 2014, while DePauw regained the championship a year ago, before the Big Red reclaimed it in 2015-16.

Ohio Wesleyan leads the way with 150 team championships during the NCAC's 32 playing seasons. Denison is next with 135 titles, followed by Allegheny (113), Kenyon (108), Wittenberg (94), Wooster (80), Wabash (21), DePauw (20), Oberlin (15), and Hiram (2).

NCAC FIRSTS

February, 1983

The formation of the NCAC is announced at joint news conferences in Cleveland, Columbus and Pittsburgh. Allegheny, Case Western Reserve, Denison, Kenyon, Oberlin, Ohio Wesleyan and Wooster are the seven charter members. Kenyon's Philip Jordan is elected first North Coast president.

March, 1983

New NCAC member Kenyon wins the NCAA Division III men's swimming & diving championship. It was the fourth national title of the Lords' remarkable NCAA-record streak of 31 consecutive titles.

February, 1984

Dennis Collins of Cleveland is named NCAC Executive Director.

October, 1984

The Oberlin women's cross country team (pictured left) wins the North Coast's first championship event, which is held at the Delaware Country Club. Vanessa Jones of Ohio Wesleyan is the individual champion. Within the next hour, Allegheny takes the men's title with Wooster's Todd Fach earning top individual honors.

May, 1985

Wooster uses seven team titles and two second-place finishes to win the NCAC's first All-Sports Championship. The North Coast completes its inaugural season with 14 of 21 champions ranked nationally.

April, 1988

Ohio Wesleyan's NCAA Div. III champion basketball team meets President Ronald Reagan in the Oval Office, a first for a Division III team in any sport.

November, 2004

Kenyon's Ashley Rowatt is named NCAA Woman of The Year. She is the first Division III athlete to earn the award, and also the first swimmer.

January, 2013

NCAC Presidents' Council selected as the first recipient of the inaugural Award for Diversity and Inclusion from the NCAA and MOAA for the Branch Rickey Mentor Program. The award for diversity and inclusion was created to recognize and celebrate the initiatives, policies and practices of NCAA members.

NCAA Postgraduate Scholarships

The NCAA annually awards 174 postgraduate scholarships, 87 for men, 87 for women, in the amount of $7,500 to student-athletes who have excelled academically and athletically and are in their final year of intercollegiate athletics competition.

Nominees must maintain at least a 3.200 grade-point average and perform with distinction in varsity competition. The student-athlete must also intend to continue academic work beyond the baccalaureate degree as a part-time or full-time graduate student. The NCAC has had 153 honorees in its 32 seasons of competition. The scholarships have been earned by student-athletes from nine schools in 18 different sports.

Kenyon is second in all Division III institutions with 75 honorees since the inception of the NCAA program in 1965 (see chart below), followed by Denison (47) in fifth. DePauw (25) is in 19th, Wabash (19) is tied for 26th, Ohio Wesleyan (17) is tied for 34 and Wooster (14) is tied for 41st.

NCAC Pam Smith and Don Hunsinger Awards

Kenyon College graduate Haley Townsend was selected as the recipient of the 2016 North Coast Athletic Conference Pam Smith Award.

Townsend, who captured 16 All-American swimming certificates over her four year career, capped off her collegiate career in the pool at the 2016 NCAA Division III Swimming & Diving Championships by helping the Ladies finish as the national runner-up for the third time in the last four years. She picked up her 16th All-American award last winter by finishing fifth as a member of the 400 medley relay team, but the most notable moment of her career came back in 2013 when she earned the national title in the same event as a freshman. Townsend swam the anchor leg on that record-setting relay team that still holds the national benchmark in the event with a time of 3:40.13. The three-time member of the College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA) Academic All-America Division III At-Large First Team also leaves Kenyon as the program's record-holder as a member of three different relay teams, including the 400 free (3:22.47), 800 free (7:20.84) and the 400 medley (3:40.13). In her sophomore season at the national meet, Townsend also collected the NCAA's Elite 89 trophy, which is given annually to the student-athlete with the highest cumulative grade-point-average participating at the championship site.

Townsend graduated summa cum laude from Kenyon this spring as an International Studies major with a 3.95 GPA and has accepted a J. William Fulbright Fellowship as an English Teaching Assistant in Turkey for the 2016-17 academic year. She was the recipient of Kenyon's 2016 International Studies Award and was also awarded one of the NCAA's Postgraduate Scholarships for the 2015-16 academic year. In addition to her national accolades, Townsend was also named to Kenyon's merit list every semester and was a three-time member of the NCAC Academic Honor Roll. Townsend, who was elected to Kenyon's chapter of Phi Beta Kappa in 2016, was also awarded the Elmer A. Graham Endowed Scholarship in 2015 as Kenyon's most outstanding junior.

While her athletic and academic accolades stand out above other student-athletes, Townsend also left her mark on the Kenyon campus and the surrounding community through her service and leadership roles. On campus she served in many leadership roles, including being nominated to the senior class committee, serving as a counselor for first-year students during freshman orientation and volunteering in the Student Accessibility & Support Services Office as a peer note taker for handicapped and disabled students. Her outreach also stretched into the local community as she was a volunteer tutor at the Knox County Learning Center and also a volunteer swim instructor for the local Knox

County Community. She served as the journal editor for the Middle East Student Association (MESA) during her senior year and was instrumental in redesigning the journal into a digital format. Her international endeavors also included serving as a summer intern at the National Council on U.S.-Arab Relations (NCUSAR) & Middle East Policy Council (MEPC).

Arthur entered his senior season as one of the best distance runners in the NCAC and he cemented his name at the top of that list following the 2015-16 academic year after being named the NCAC Cross Country Runner of the Year and the Outdoor Track & Field Distance Runner of the Year. In the fall, he became the first Yeomen runner in school history to win the NCAC men's cross country individual title with an 8k time of 25:00.7. The three-time, first-team, All-NCAC cross country performer then went on to become the first individual regional champion in program history with a time of 25:13.7 at the Great Lakes Regional Championships. He then capped off his illustrious cross country career with his third-straight trip to the national meet and his second consecutive All-American performance after finishing 22nd overall with a time of 24:47.7. Arthur continued his dominance over NCAC distance runners in the spring as he was crowned the league's Distance Runner of the Year after winning both the 5,000- and 10,000-meter runs at the 2016 NCAC Outdoor Track & Field Championships. The two-time Oberlin Male Athlete of the Year honoree was also named the 2015 NCAC Indoor Track & Field Distance Runner of the Year in his junior campaign.

Arthur's success wasn't just achieved on the athletic venues as he recently graduated from Oberlin with a 3.5 grade-point-average as a biology major and was named to the NCAC Academic Honor Roll in both 2014-15 and 2015-16. Arthur, who was named the 2016 John N. Stern/NCAC Scholar-Athlete of the Year at Oberlin, also earned the Lysle K. Butler Award from Oberlin in 2015 and was awarded the Oberlin Biology Department's Hope Hibbard Memorial Scholarship in 2016.

Arthur was also active in service and leadership positions in both the campus and local communities during his time at Oberlin. In the fall of 2014 he designed and implemented ecology lab protocols as a teaching assistant in the Oberlin biology department and also served as a NINDE Scholars high school tutor from 2013-16. In the community, he volunteered his time at the Kendal Retirement Home and also served as a communications and development intern at the Alzheimer's Association in the summer of 2014. He was also an associate at the Western Reserve Land Conservancy Preservation and was a communications intern at the Gulf Restoration Network in January of 2016.

NCAA Review, 2015-16

NCAC Captures 66th National Title in 32 Years

Denison earned its third NCAA Division III championship in men's swimming & diving in program history to highlight the North Coast Athletic Conference's efforts on the national level during the 2015-16 academic year. The title runs the NCAC's championship count to 66 over 32 playing seasons.

Kenyon's run of Division III men's swimming crowns ended in 2011 as North Coast rival Denison stopped the Lords' streak of consecutive national championships at 31. No other men's or women's teams in NCAA history -- any sport, any division -- have won as many consecutive titles (see chart below). The next-longest men's streak of 12 is shared by Arkansas in Division I men's indoor track & field, Hobart in Division III men's lacrosse. The Kenyon Ladies' swimming streak ended at 17 but remains the longest for a women's team in any division, and totals 23 over the past 28 years.

All 23 of the NCAC's sports were represented in national competition last year. Highlights include Kenyon men's and women's swimming and diving runner-up performances. In all, the NCAC took home two of the top-four finishes on both sides of the swimming and diving national championships with Denison finishing fourth on the women's side. Following the four days of competition in North Carolina, NCAC student-athletes won 11 national titles, logged 74 All-American performances and posted 42 Honorable-Mention All-American Performances. In addition, Denison junior Jack Lindell was named the 2016 men's National Swimmer of the Year after winning three individual event titles and one relay crown, while senior Ben Lewis was named the men's National Diver of the Year after he won the one-meter title and finished second in the three-meter competition. Denison head coach Gregg Parini was also named the national Men's Coach of the Year after guiding the Big Red back to the top of the team standings for the first time since winning back-to-back titles in 2011 and '12. Other highlights included the Kenyon men's soccer team advancing to the quarterfinal round of the NCAA Tournament for the first time since 1996, ultimately bowing out of the national tournament with a

1-0 loss against Calvin. Wabash posted its best finish at the NCAA Cross Country Championships since

1995 after placing eighth overall with 292 points and the Wittenberg volleyball team capped off its 2015 season as the national runners-up after dropping a 3-0 decision against Cal

Lutheran in the National Championship Match. For the first time in league history, the

NCAC sent two softball teams to the NCAA Division III Tournament. Wittenberg earned the conference's automatic bid into the national tournament after winning the 2016

NCAC Tournament, while DePauw became the first team in league history to earn an at-large bid in the national tournament. The Wittenberg men's and women's golf teams both finished third at their respective NCAA Division III Championships. Leading the way for Wittenberg women's team individually was Tiger junior Macy Hubbard. Hubbard took home second-place for a second consecutive year, this time missing out on the top spot by just one stroke with a three-day total of 219. The Denison men's lacrosse team advanced to the quarterfinal round of the 2016 NCAA Tournament, before being eliminated by eventual national champion Salisbury in overtime by a 11-10 margin. Finally, Kenyon men's tennis duo of senior

Sam Geier and junior Tristan Kaye captured the program's first-ever NCAA Doubles National Championship with a 7-6 (3), 6-1 victory over Middlebury's team of Palmer Campbell and Hamid Derbani.

Division III

DISCOVER | DEVELOP | DEDICATE

Follow your passions and discover your potential.

The college experience is a time of learning and growth – a chance to follow passions and develop potential. For student-athletes in Division III, this happens most importantly in the classroom and through earning an academic degree.

The Division III experience provides for passionate participation in a competitive athletics environment, where student-athletes push themselves to excellence and build upon their academic success with new challenges and life skills. And student-athletes are encouraged to pursue the full spectrum of opportunities available during their time in college.

In this way, Division III provides an integrated environment for student-athletes to take responsibility for their own paths, follow their passions and find their potential through a comprehensive educational experience.

What we stand for:

Proportion

Appropriate relation of academics with opportunities to pursue athletics & other passions

Comprehensive Learning

Opportunity for broad-based education and success

Passion

Playing for the love of the game, competition, fun and self-improvement.

Responsibility

Development of accountability through personal commitment and choices

Sportsmanship

Fair and respectful conduct toward all participants and supporters.

Citizenship

Dedication to developing responsible leaders and citizens in our communities.
